

Suffolk University Archives Newsletter

Vol. 1, No. 1, Jan./Feb. 2007

Visit the Archives Website

Suffolk University Archives has launched a new website, that includes: collection information, research topics, helpful reference materials, the Early Student Research Project, and staff contact information.

<http://www.suffolk.edu/archive/index.html>

Curriculum Support

The Archives wishes to collaborate with academic departments. Collaborations include in-class presentations on conducting archival research and primary source research. Advanced notice is appreciated if you plan to send students to the Archives. For a list of research topics please check our website.

<http://www.suffolk.edu/archive/14948.html>

Oral Histories Online

The Moakley Archive Oral History project documents and preserves valuable information and observations that may not be a part of the paper, photographic, and audiovisual portions of the Congressman John Joseph Moakley Papers. Transcripts are now available online.

<http://www.joemoakley.org/OralHistoryTranscripts.cfm>

Do you know someone who would like to help build Suffolk's living history? Contact us.
Nicole DeAngelo, 617-305-6277, ndeangel@suffolk.edu
www.suffolk.edu/archive

Suffolk's first student publication, the Suffolk Law School Register
Vol. 1, No. 1 October 1915

Early Student Research Project

The Early Student Research Project, conducted by the Archives includes documents such as class profiles, biographies of early Suffolk University Law School students and a list of Law School firsts. More info