Whether it's years down the road or just around the corner, the time to start saving for retirement is now.

Why it's important to act now

- People are living longer these days. That's a good thing, but it means you'll probably need more money to cover daily expenses and healthcare when you retire.
- On average, Social Security will provide only 40% of the money you will need during your retirement years.¹
- Time is on your side: the earlier you act, the more it can do for you.

Time can have a significant impact on your retirement savings.

The earlier you start to save, the more time and money can work for you through the power of compounding. You have the potential for growth on the funds contributed to your account, and the potential for growth on their earnings. And, the longer you save, the more powerfully compounding can work for you.

This graph represents a hypothetical illustration showing how much money a person would have if they saved $100 a month for 20, 30 and 40 years. The illustration assumes a 6% annual return. It is purely hypothetical and is not intended to predict or project the actual performance of any account. Actual returns will vary. Does not reflect expenses that would result in lower returns. Assumes no withdrawals during the period indicated. All figures are rounded to the nearest thousand.
