

00:05 - Hi, my name is Marisa Kelly
00:07 and I am the President of Suffolk University.
00:09 Congratulations on your admission.
00:12 We know that you have worked hard to get to this point
00:15 and you are ready to take the next step.
00:18 And we are ready to welcome you
00:21 as the newest members of the Suffolk community.
00:24 You know, at Suffolk
00:25 we create transformational educational opportunities
00:30 for our students that lead to career success
00:34 and community impact for our graduates
00:37 over the course of their lives.
00:38 We do that by harnessing the full power
00:42 of experiential learning.
00:43 Experiential learning, which for us is everything from
00:46 internships to course-based consulting projects,
00:50 to the opportunity to engage in laboratory research,
00:53 curate an art exhibit, or start your own business.
00:57 We harness the full power of experiential learning,
01:01 inside our classrooms and outside of them,
01:05 drawing on the resources of the City of Boston,
01:08 but also the resources of our vast alumni network
01:11 across the globe, and our vast network of partnerships
01:15 both in the city, in the region,
01:17 and internationally as well.
01:19 And when you take all of that,
01:21 and you combine it with the personal attention
01:25 that our students get from faculty and staff,
01:28 it is an incredibly powerful combination.
01:33 I hope that you will have the opportunity to experience
01:37 for yourself the power of a Suffolk education
01:40 by joining us here in the fall.
01:43 I look forward to welcoming you then.
01:45 Again, congratulations.
