

YOU'RE GOING TO DO AMAZING THINGS HERE

Vincent Douglass

Theatre Major
Class of 2023

Literary scene: writes plays and musicals—when he's not performing

Photographed on Fan Pier

LEAD THE WAY

The world needs you. Your conviction. Your voice.

How you change the world is up to you. Make your way to Suffolk University to start making things happen.

“I want to sit in a huge class and memorize facts,” said no Suffolk student ever. Here, you won’t just study. You’ll live your best education. Why limit yourself to a traditional classroom when you can learn hands-on in the opportunity-packed city of Boston?

Along the way, you’ll gain the skills you need to make an impact in your community and your world. The poise to give on-point presentations. The ability to collaborate with people from diverse backgrounds. And the leadership to work like a boss.

Maybe you already know your calling. Maybe you don’t—and that’s more than okay. Come as you are to Suffolk and become who you’re meant to be.

Lily Wilson
Public Relations Major
Class of 2025

---

Hometown: Boston, Massachusetts

Activities: Trustee Ambassador, Teaching Assistant, Asian American Association (Representative)

Major goal: hopes to make a positive change as a PR pro

Paying it forward: teaches first-year students how to present with confidence

Urban oasis: “Boston Common is neighborly. It’s just so nice to see so many friendly faces, enjoying Boston and nature.”

Photographed in Christopher Columbus Park

“Suffolk really supports me, makes me feel passionate and empowered.
There’s no such thing as perfect but definitely I found the most perfect college for me.”

Angela El-Jazzar

Next on her to-do list: applying to law school before becoming a corporate attorney

Photographed at South Station

Noah Trofimow

Good work: founded the Paper Bag Mask Foundation, which aims to boost young people's self-confidence and coping skills

Photographed in the Suffolk University Center for Entrepreneurship

Nakia Gelin

On a mission: "I can be the advocate for anybody who doesn't have a voice."

Photographed in Piers Park

Nico Miele

The secret of his student-athlete success: time-management, which he learned in his First-Year Seminar

Photographed on Tremont Street

Ana Luiza Bernardes

What she stands for: her fellow seniors, as a Student Government Association senator

Photographed in East Boston

“At 17 years old, I think I probably made the best decision in my life up to this point: to come here.”

Jack McDonnell
Political Science Major
Class of 2025

---

Hometown: Wallingford, Connecticut

Activities: Resident Assistant, Trustee Ambassador, Men's Basketball Team

First political campaign experience: putting up lawn signs for his grandmother, a long-serving Connecticut state representative Right time, right place: He got a taste of Boston's political scene while touring campus with Head Men's Basketball Coach Jeff Juron the day the 2020 presidential election got called.

Band of blue-and-gold brothers: “We are like a family. My teammates have been super supportive of everything I've pursued off the court.”

Photographed outside 73 Tremont

MAKE THINGS HAPPEN HERE

Boston is the quintessential college town, and there really is no better place to go to college and intern. You'll find inspiration all around the city that's our extended campus. Get ready to interact with Boston's civic, financial, cultural, and tech leaders in class, at their workplaces, and even on your way to Suffolk. Those fast-paced, sharply dressed professionals you see every day? Thanks to all that you learn here, that'll be you someday soon. (PS: A lot of them are Suffolk alums looking for their next hires!)

But it's not all about networking (as important as that is). There's an amazing city literally right outside our campus. Get out there and find your new favorite museum, restaurant, spot to catch a show or a game, and bench for those times when you just want to unwind by the harbor with a cannoli. When you go to Suffolk, Boston won't be your backdrop—it'll be your home.

Emily Boyle
Psychology Major
Class of 2022

Daily flex: walking through Boston Common and passing the State House on her way to class

Photographed in Boston Common

“City living is everything to me. You always have somewhere to go, something to do, more people to meet. Suffolk is right next to everything that I ever wanted to do in life.”

Naethan Mwangi
Biology Major
Class of 2025

---

Hometown: Worcester, Massachusetts

Activities: Black Student Union, Resident Assistant, Men’s Basketball, Dining Committee, Miller Hall Council

Post-grad goal: attending Tufts University Medical School

Sweet networking scene: Swapped contact info with surgeons while in line at Insomnia Cookies

Honing his bedside manner as an RA: “You understand how to talk to people in their lowest moments and in their highest moments.”

The room where it happened: got inspired to get involved on campus after hanging out with student leaders at the Sawyer Building’s third-floor lounge

Photographed in Post Office Square

The Boston Public Garden is a postcard-perfect place to study and hang out with friends.

Take a walk through time between classes on Beacon Hill—where you'll find Acorn Street and other architectural treasures.

McKenna Keowen

Where she competes:

The Larry E. Smith and Michael S. Smith Court right on campus

Photographed in the Ridgeway Gymnasium

Holly Nguyen

What brings her joy: counting how many city pups she pets each day

Photographed at Graffiti Alley, Cambridge

Tara Maltese

Political Science Major (Concentration in Public Policy & Law)/
Philosophy and Public Relations Minors
Class of 2023

---

Hometown: Jefferson, Maine

Activities: Student Government Association (Past Committee Chair and Secretary; Current Vice President), Theta Phi Alpha (Public Relations & Academic Excellence Chair), Journey Leadership Program

Biggest superfan: Her dad.
“He was like, ‘Tara, I’ve never seen you say you’re going to do something and not achieve it.’ You know what?
He’s right.”

Internship: Event planning at WGBH

Financial advisor: As a first-generation student, she received personal guidance from Suffolk’s director of financial aid.

Political history: She’s the first woman to serve as SGA vice president.

Photographed on Pier 4

“I went from seeing cows every day to being at the top of a skyscraper.”

Omar Rodriguez

Definite change of scenery:

This Miami native had his first-ever snowball fight on Boston Common

Photographed in One Court Street

Grab your friends and take in the moment on the Charles River. This is your city.

Rhea Katoch

In her element: "Living in Boston is a personality trait."

Photographed in Graffiti Alley, Cambridge

The Massachusetts State House is more than an iconic campus neighbor; it's where Suffolk students gain an inside look at politics as interns.

EXPERIENCE (IS) EVERYTHING

Want a 360-degree view of your field? Get it with your Suffolk degree, with help from our faculty and from our Center for Career Equity, Development & Success.

Roll up those sleeves and get ready for first-hand experience in your major. Present data analyses to executives. Help the New England Revolution soccer club define its brand. Reinterpret history as an intern at a plantation. This kind of learning will help you show employers that you don't just know what you're talking about—you can actually do it, too.

Suffolk students earn educations that break the boundaries between traditional fields. Complex problems are interdisciplinary; it'll take adaptable thinkers to solve them. Plus, you can book your ticket to opportunities across the globe for an even greater worldview.

Our focus on hands-on know-how will get you good and ready for professional success anywhere in the world—even in jobs that haven't been created yet. You'll learn how to collaborate and how to shine as a leader. Our expert Career Center team and your faculty mentors will guide you on your way to finding your true calling. By the time you graduate, you'll be perfectly poised to put your degree to work.

Jacob Murphy

Broadcast Journalism Major
Class of 2022

Multimedia matters: He interned at WCVB-TV and NECN, co-hosted Moon Tunes on Suffolk Free Radio, and wrote for The Suffolk Journal.

Photographed outside Studio 73

Ahmad Paul
Finance Major
Class of 2024

---

Hometown: Holbrook, Massachusetts

Activities: Fundamental Brotherhood Society
(Treasurer)

Peering into his business future: first visited campus as a high school junior for an accounting seminar

Dream job: Owning his own corporate law firm

Most influential teachers:
Assistant Professor of Practice, Accounting & Business Law John McCoy and Assistant Professor of Economics Christos Makriyannis—plus fitness influencer (and childhood friend) Chauncey Palmer

Good content: Models and spreads body positivity on social media

Photographed in the Samia Academic Center

“They really bring what you’re learning to life. You could walk outside the building and actually see it for yourself. And that’s where questions get brought up.”

Akhila John

Post-grad plan: This biology major aspires to be a physician assistant.

Photographed in Christopher Columbus Park

Stephen Merrick

Finding focus: mastered the art of knot-tying for his First-Year Seminar, Attention in the Age of Distraction

Photographed in the North End

Caren Urbano

How she puts her finance major to work: She's president of FinTechWomen SU.

Photographed outside the Institute of Contemporary Art

Alfredo Serrano Figueroa

His company: founded the Analytics Experience to share his knowledge of all things data-related

Photographed in the Boston Public Garden

William Woodring

How he gets the message out: majors in public relations and serves as news editor for The Suffolk Journal

Photographed in the Seaport District

Naia Fils-Aimé
Radiation Science
Major
Class of 2023

---

Hometown: Lynn, Massachusetts (by way of Haiti)

Activities: Suffolk University Peer Health Educator (SUPER), Resident Assistant, Black Student Union (Event Planning), ACLU (Public Relations)

Study hall: bonded with her fellow first-years in Smith Hall while doing homework and eating grilled cheese until 1 a.m.

Best thing about being a SUPER: “I just love leaving a classroom knowing that they learned one thing they didn’t know.”

Internship experience:
researched social defeat stress in female mice at McLean Hospital and presented at the Annual Biomedical Research Conference for Minoritized
Students in Anaheim, California

Favorite form of self-care:
tuning into her own thoughts while contemplating paintings in the Museum of Fine Arts’ hushed galleries

Photographed in Piers Park

“When I declared my major, I didn’t know I would actually be going to Mass General or Brigham and Women’s and learning about the machines.”

THINK OUTSIDE YOUR TIME ZONE

Suffolk has one of the best addresses in Boston. But there's a whole world beyond our ZIP code—a world of challenges to solve, cultures to learn from, and innovations to share. Your Suffolk education will prepare you to go truly global so you can understand and make your mark on it.

Get ready to cross cultures like a pro. The world needs global citizens—confident leaders willing to listen to different perspectives and find creative solutions to the issues affecting us all.

When it comes to getting worldly-wise, you've got options. Head to our very own campus in Madrid, Spain. Study at our partner institutions worldwide. Take a Travel Seminar to see how business gets done abroad, or help a community on a service-learning trip to Southeast Asia.

Go ahead and broaden those horizons. They'll help you succeed wherever you make your home in the world.

Alyssa Auger
Public Relations Major
Class of 2024

New stomping ground: Europe, thanks to her semester at Suffolk Madrid

Photographed at the Eiffel Tower in Paris

“Since all of you speak English perfectly, I was really intimidated. But then I realized the American community is always helping me and always including me.”

Catari Giglio

Global alma maters: has attended schools in Chile and her native Italy

Photographed at the Donald McKay Memorial

Ronny Brizan

Campus involvement: member of Suffolk's Black Student Union, Caribbean Student Network, and track and field team

Photographed in the Moakley Law Library

George Breslin

Citizen of the world:

This dual national holds passports from the United States and the United Kingdom, and pitches for the Rams.

Photographed at Underground at Ink Block

Kimberly Curcuru-Henry

Growing her network:

She joined Suffolk's Asian American Association and interned at John Hancock/Manulife.

Photographed at Underground at Ink Block

“One of my roommates is from Venezuela and one of my best friends is from Argentina.
They’re from everywhere. It’s just being able to see all these cultures come together.”

BE WHERE YOU BELONG

Welcome. You'll probably hear this word a lot in life, but it means something special at Suffolk. We've been inclusive since our founding in 1906. Whatever your background, religion, orientation, and identity are, you're welcome to be yourself.

Your classmates will have a whole world of diverse views; don't be surprised to find your own expanding in unexpected ways. The critical thinking, communication, and collaboration skills you gain here will be the key to your future academic, professional, and personal success.

Speaking of success, our supportive community will help you become the confident leader you always knew you could be. There are so many ways you can make campus life even livelier. Seriously, just wait until you see your options at September's Student Involvement Fair. Want those interpersonal skills employers look for? Want to find your voice and find your squad? It's easy: get involved.

You've got this. And we've got your back.

Jelani Burns
Finance Major
Class of 2024

Student leadership role: president of the Fundamental Brotherhood Society

Photographed in East Boston

---

“I wanted to be that person that made sure this was the type of environment that people feel welcome and celebrated in.”

“One of my older sisters went to Suffolk. I literally never saw her come home because she was always doing something. I wanted to be like that.”

MAKE IT OFFICIAL!

Submit your enrollment deposit today.

suffolk.edu/admitted

Want another look at our campus in downtown Boston? Schedule your visit today.

suffolk.edu/ugvisit

On the Cover:

Barbara Consales

Advertising Major

Class of 2023

---

Net play: As a Ram, she serves up singles and doubles tennis, and has earned her place on the athletic director's honor roll for six semesters (so far).

Photographed at the Donald McKay Memorial

Suffolk University
73 Tremont Street, Boston, MA 02108

———— @suffolk_u ————