Suffolk University assists city with providing COVID-19 shelter

Broadcast coverage – March 29-30, 2020

Suffolk University on WCVB-BOS (ABC) - Boston, MA
Cityline
3/29/2020 12:07:20 PM
homeless individuals to safely quarantine. Suffolk University will be repurposed thing a dormitory building that will provide 172 new beds. this will be managed in

Suffolk University on NBC Boston - Boston, MA
3/29/2020 12:07:24 PM
individuals to safely quarantine. Suffolk University will be repurposing a dormitory building that will provide 172 new beds. this facility will be managed in collaboration with the pine

Suffolk University on WFXT-BOS (FOX) - Boston, MA
3/29/2020 12:07:28 PM
for homeless individuals to safely quarantine. Suffolk University will be repurposed in a dormitory building that will provide hundred and 72 new beds. this facility will be managed

Suffolk University on WCVB-BOS (ABC) - Boston, MA
Cityline
3/29/2020 12:08:45 PM
we get creative and we figure it i want to thank Suffolk University for stepping up to the plate and getting these facilities ready so quickly. i also want to thank the neighbors and businesses in the

Suffolk University on NBC Boston - Boston, MA
3/29/2020 12:08:PM
when people are in need we come creative and figure it out. Suffolk University for stepping i sincerely want to thank up to the plate and getting these facilities ready so quickly.
we help them and we get i sincerely want to thank the suffolk university for stepping up to the plate and getting these facilities ready so health want to give a shout out quickly.

a strong city does when people are in need we come together to help them we creative we figure it out I sincerely want to thank Suffolk University for stepping up to the plate and getting these facilities ready so quickly I also want to give a shout out thank the neighbors and businesses in the Brighton area and a beacon Hill feel compassion and they're doing that by transforming a suffolk university dormitory into a shelter and also a former hospital in brighton into a shelter. those are ready to take people well. and so a dorm, is the but also in some other mralss as suffolk university has been repurposed to help with the homeless community, with 172 new beds, and also a former hospital on common avenue and bright preparing for a while 550 new batch of australians might be suffering from kobe 19 each at Suffolk University in Boston medical Center also re purposing a former hospital it right there although announcing new restrictions on Park in the city he said too many people are still gathering and playing sports they've been tying basketball hoops taking to assist those experiencing homelessness 550 new beds are being made available as early as tomorrow Suffolk University will be repurposing a dormitory building held via 172 new beds the facility will be managed by the be clad Gration with pine Street and and Boston Public Health report of koran virus in the city's homeless community the city is repurposing a Suffolk University dormitory and an old hospital in Brighton to provide more than 200 beds to ease crowding in city shelters to limit the virus's spread there are more than 4000 confirmed cases in to walk to the car there's no playing in top lots than they are also announced that a dormant Suffolk University is being converted into 172 new beds for the homeless former hospital on Commonwealth Avenue in Brighton also will provide 70 new beds could acting city is a long term effort will continue to

Boston is creating hundreds of new beds for its homeless community during the outbreak a dormant Suffolk University and an old hospital in Brighton will be converted to provide space for the homeless recovering from the virus while says the city continues to adapt to the growing health crisis the announcing today that more beds will be going online tomorrow Suffolk University is converting one of the two storms into space for the homeless 172 new beds will now be available there in addition of former hospital on comment and bright will be offering 70 new beds iope andray purpose or belts according teen center next to the South hampton Street shelter a dormant Suffolk University a former Boston medical Center building and a former acute care center in Brighton now owned by the Davis company's director of development Stephen Davis what our company done and really Yep a backup to problem persists for 90 point 9w be you are I'm more T gone the city is re purposing Suffolk University don't hurry and known hospital in brain to provide more than 200 beds for the city's homeless during the crisis there's spend one confirmed case in Boston's homeless community and Rhode Island governor is duration are being increased mayor Marty Walsh announced details at a news conference outside city call earlier today Suffolk University will be re purposing a dormitory building told via 172 new beds the facility will be managed by the being clever Gratation with pine Street and and Boston Public cities also building a quarantine an isolation center next to the South hampton Street shelter repurposing a dormant Suffolk University and Re opening the close new pavilion building at Boston medical Center to the city's most vulnerable still get the treatment they need and Olson Madison Rogers WBZ Boston's news radio new York state now Boston is creating hundreds of new beds for its homeless community during the outbreak of the virus. Mayor Walsh says the city continues to adapt to the growing health crisis.

Mayor Walsh today announced that a Suffolk University dorm and former Boston medical Center building and a former acute care center in Brighton are being converted to provide services to those experiencing homelessness. The new beds will mean 242 new beds in the city.

Several facilities better being reopened for the purpose of belts according teen center next to the South Hampton Street shelter. Suffolk University is a former Boston medical Center building and a former acute care center in Brighton now owned by the Davis company. Director of development Stephen Davis explained the transition.

Boston mayor Marty Walsh announced expanded services for the city's homeless population. 242 new beds will open at a converted Suffolk University dorm and former hospital.
bright hospital as soon as tomorrow the governor set up a new online portal will streamline the collection of personal protective equipment the

Suffolk University on WHDH-BOS - Boston, MA

7News at 6 PM
3/29/2020 6:02:08 PM

individuals to safely quarantine. >> reporter: suffolk university will repurpose a dorm to provide 172 beds. another 70 beds will be available at a former hospital

Suffolk University on WBUR (Radio) - Boston, MA

3/29/2020 6:04:48 PM

be closing parks if the problem persists for 90 point 9w be you are I'm Mark P gone the city is re purposing a Suffolk University don't hurry ends and old hospital and brighten to provide more than 200 beds the city's homeless during the crisis there has ban one confirmed case in Boston's homeless community

Suffolk University on WFXT-BOS (FOX) - Boston, MA

Boston 25 News at 6PM
3/29/2020 6:05:23 PM

>> that is according to a poll done by suffolk university and the boston globe last week, asking residents about personal concerns, resources and more 76% of residents are very

Suffolk University on WFXT-BOS (FOX) - Boston, MA

Boston 25 News at 6PM
3/29/2020 6:06:54 PM

as far as sheltering boston's homeless, suffolk university is stepping up to the plate tonight. they are repurpose in old dorm not far away from here. that will provide an extra 172 Homeless individuals to safely quarantine. >> Reporter: Suffolk University will repurpose a dorm to provide 172 beds. Another 70 beds will be available at a former hospital.

The city is also building a quarantine and isolation center next to the South Hampton Street shelter repurposing a dormant Suffolk University and re-opening the clothes new pavilion building at Boston Medical Center so the city's most vulnerable still get the treatment they need and also Madison Rogers.

Individuals to safely quarantine. >> Suffolk University will another available at a hospital repurpose a dorm in Brighton, a space provided by the Davis Companies.

Cities also building a quarantine and isolation center next to the South Hampton Street shelter repurposing a dormant Suffolk University and re-opening the clothes new pavilion building at Boston Medical Center said the city's most vulnerable still get the treatment they need and Olson Madison.
Suffolk University is pitching in, repurposing the dorm to provide up to 172 beds and a vacant former hospital will provide 70 more beds.

Suffolk University dorms are one of the locations that will be used as part of the quarantine and recovery process for Boston's homeless.

The city is also building a quarantine and isolation center next to the South Hampton Street shelter repurposing a dormant Suffolk University andrea opening closing pavilion building at Boston medical Center said the city's most vulnerable still get the treatment they need and often Madison Rogers the BBC Austin's newsroom

The city will soon have 240 extra beds for homeless people, Suffolk University plans to turn beds a dorm into a shelter with 172 this hospital commonwealth avenue in bryton will have 70

Individuals to safely quarantine. >> reporter: Suffolk University will provide 172 beds a space provided by the Davis companies. >> reach out to the city and cities also building a quarantine and isolation center next to the South Hampton Street shelter repurposing a dormant Suffolk University and re-opening the closed new pavilion building at Boston Medical Center said the city's most vulnerable still get the treatment they need and Olson mass

cities also building a quarantine and isolation center next to the South Hampton Street shelter repurposing a dormant Suffolk University and re-opening the closed new pavilion building at Boston Medical Center so the city's most vulnerable still get the treatment they need and Olson mass and Rogers oblique easy Austin's news radio to safely quarantine. >> Nathalie: Suffolk University will repurpose a dorm to provide at least 172 beds. Another 70 beds will be available at a former hospital in Brighton, a space provided by the mayor says that Suffolk University plans to turn a dorm into a shelter with 172 beds and an old hospital in the Commonwealth Avenue area and Brighton will add another 70 beds and

Suffolk University on New England Cable News - Boston, MA
NBC 10 Boston Today at 4:00am
3/30/2020 4:36:04 AM

Buildings into temporary shelters including dorms at Suffolk University and a vacant former hospital in Brighton. The buildings will provide more than 200 beds for the homeless to self-quarantine.

Suffolk University on WBZ-BOS (CBS) - Boston, MA
WBZ This Morning
3/30/2020 4:54:43 AM

disrupted does that mean Predrag bones but Suffolk University repurposing one of its norms for the homeless to be treated and you guys heard was the beginning of the weekend the public health commissioner Monica Morales tested positive she was supposed to be our guest this week

Suffolk University on 89.7 WGBH - Boston, MA
3/30/2020 5:02:29 AM

disrupted does that mean Predrag bones but Suffolk University repurposing one of its norms for the homeless to be treated and you guys heard was the beginning of the weekend the public health commissioner Monica Morales tested positive she was supposed to be our guest this week

Suffolk University on WBUR (Radio) - Boston, MA
3/30/2020 5:04:10 AM

city's homeless population mayor Marty Walsh says the new species 172 beds at a downtown dormitory at Suffolk University and 70 more at a former hospital in Brighton this expansion goes on the work already been doing with Hamas Park population since the crisis began a steep street outreach teams still working every day to engage the people need help
Suffolk University on WCVB-BOS (ABC) - Boston, MA

3/30/2020 5:06:14 AM

homeless population from the coronavirus outbreak. suffolk university dorms are one used as part of the quarantine of the locations that will be and recovery process. and more than 50 new beds will

Suffolk University on WHDH-BOS - Boston, MA

3/30/2020 5:06:30 AM

spaces for homeless individuals to safely quarantine. >> john: suffolk university will repurpose a dorm to provide at least 172 beds. another 70 beds will be available at a former hospital

Suffolk University on WFXT-BOS (FOX) - Boston, MA

3/30/2020 5:06:41 AM population, because existing shelters just simply aren't so suffolk university has conducive to social distancing. stepped up with the hundred 70+ beds, the old hannahem hospital in brighton, most

Suffolk University on WGGB-SPR (ABC) - Springfield, MA

3/30/2020 5:07:57 AM

homeless individuals to safely quarantine" suffolk university is opening up dorm rooms to provide 172 more beds for those experiencing homelessness. a former hospital in brighton is

Suffolk University on Fox 6 - Springfield, MA

3/30/2020 5:07:57 AM

homeless individuals to safely quarantine" suffolk university is opening up dorm rooms to provide 172 more beds for those experiencing homelessness. a former hospital in brighton is dorm transformed into homeless shelter>> suffolk university in boston... will be using one of its dorms... to house hundreds of the city's homeless population during the several facilities better being reopened 3 purpose or belts according teen center next to the South hampton Street shelter a dormant Suffolk University a former Boston medical Center building and a former acute care center in Brighton now owned by the Davis company's director of development Stephen Davis mayor Walsh is working to open hundreds of treatment and shelter beds for homeless people affected by the virus announcing Suffolk University is converting Some of its dorm rooms to handle the overflow and orders of recreational marijuana stores are trying to petition the state classified their companies as

had their first confirmed case in the homeless community-- suffolk university is opening up dorm rooms to provide 172 more beds. and a former hospital in brighton is also being repurposed to provide 70
buildings into temporary shelters including dorms at Suffolk University and a vacant former hospital in Brighten. The buildings will provide more than 200 beds for the homeless the city says the Brighten site space and treatment facilities for people experiencing homelessness. Suffolk University is converting one of its dormitories to provide 172 beds to reduce crowding and a former hospital in Brighton will reopen in the coming days to provide treatment beds for those who do become infected. so the city that's about 240 re purposed beds for homeless people in crisis most of these are Suffolk University dormitory students are using coarse his most classes are a cancel for in-person meetings and the rest are a former hospital right Bob and active hospital those are feeling stretched as they isolate themselves if exposed to the highly contagious virus including at Suffolk University where dorms will be turned into a sheltered to help. the mayor pointing out that many are - too many rather are still homeless population from the coronavirus outbreak. Suffolk University dorms are one of the locations that will be used as part of the quarantine and recovery process. More than 50 new beds will now be they will provide more safe spaces for homeless individuals. Suffolk University will repurpose a dorm to provide at least 172 beds. Another 70 beds will be they're coming. 170 plus from Suffolk University using dormitory space not being used by students for the homeless population plus 70 beds at the hospital in Brighton.

homeless individuals to safely quarantine. Suffolk University is opening up dorm rooms to provide 172 more beds for those experiencing homelessness. A former hospital in Brighton is homeless individuals to safely quarantine. Suffolk University is opening up dorm rooms to provide 172 more beds for those experiencing homelessness. A former hospital in Brighton is Suffolk University is opening up dorm rooms to provide 172 more beds for those experiencing homelessness. A former hospital in Brighton is also being repurposed to provide 70 more beds for the homeless. Suffolk University is planning to make more than 170 dorm rooms available to people experiencing homelessness to lower crowding at city shelters. The owners of recreational marijuana stores are had their first confirmed case in the homeless community. Suffolk University is opening up dorm rooms to provide 172 more beds, and a former hospital in Brighton is also being repurposed to provide 70 more beds. Cities are also building a quarantine and isolation center next to the South Hampton Street shelter. Repurposing a dormant Suffolk University and reopening the clothes new pavilion building at Boston Medical Center said the city's most vulnerable still get the treatment they need and often massive.

Suffolk University on WGGB-SPR (ABC) - Springfield, MA

Western Mass News On ABC40
3/30/2020 6:31:20 AM
had their first confirmed case in the homeless community-- suffolk university is opening up dorm rooms to provide 172 more beds. and a former hospital in brighton is also being repurposed to provide 70

Suffolk University on WBZ-BOS (CBS) - Boston, MA

WBZ This Morning
3/30/2020 6:33:45 AM
buildings into temporary shelters including dorms at suffolk university and a vacant former hospital in brighton. the buildings will provide more than 200 beds for the homeless the city says the brighton site

Suffolk University on 89.7 WGBH - Boston, MA

3/30/2020 6:35:19 AM
medical facility are being reopened this week solely address the medical needs of homeless people affected by the virus Suffolk University separately is opening up more than 170 of its dorm rooms to handle the overflow as mayor Walsh moves to expand resources for the most vulnerable he's reiterating the necessity as

Suffolk University on WHDH-BOS - Boston, MA

7News Today in New England
3/30/2020 7:01:29 AM to treat patients with scrid. converting a dorm building with >> suffolk university is more than 150 beds into a homeless shelter. a former hospital in brighton is doing the same.

Suffolk University on 98.5 The Sports Hub (WBZ-FM) - Boston, MA

3/30/2020 7:03:32 AM
last week in the city of Boston reported its first homeless case of kobe 19 to assist protecting those on the streets Suffolk University has converted one of the storms to provide safe quarantine for the homeless with 172 beds available another 70 beds will be available in the coming days said a former hospital in Brighton at the common
Suffolk University on WBUR (Radio) - Boston, MA

3/30/2020 7:04:10 AM

the city's homeless population mayor Marty Walsh says the news bases 172 beds at a downtown dormitory at Suffolk University and 70 more at a former hospital you break this expansion goes on the work that they've already been doing with the homeless population since the crisis began a steep street outreach teams still working every day to

Suffolk University on WHDH-BOS - Boston, MA

7News Today in New England

3/30/2020 7:07:03 AM

spaces for homeless individuals to safely quarantine. >> reporter: suffolk university will repurpose a dorm to provide at least 172 beds. another 70 beds will be available at a former hospital

Suffolk University on Fox 6 - Springfield, MA

3/30/2020 7:07:42 AM

homeless individuals to safely quarantine" suffolk university is opening up dorm rooms to provide 172 more beds for those experiencing homelessness. a former hospital in brighton is

Suffolk University on 98.5 The Sports Hub (WBZ-FM) - Boston, MA

3/30/2020 7:20:51 AM

better being reopened 3 purpose or belts according teen center next to the South hampton Street shelter a dormant Suffolk University a former Boston medical Center building and a former acute care center in Brighton now by the Davis company's director of development Stephen Davis

Suffolk University on 89.7 WGBH - Boston, MA

3/30/2020 7:23:58 AM

treatment and shelter beds for homeless people affected by the virus announcing that Suffolk University is converting some of its dorm rooms to handle the overflow shelters in provide isolation space for homeless people who have contracted kobe 19 while the owners of
had their first confirmed case in the homeless community-- suffolk university is opening up dorm rooms to provide 172 more beds. and a former hospital in brighton is also being repurposed to provide 70

more shelter space and treatment facilities for people experiencing homelessness Suffolk University is converting one of its dormitory to provide 172 beds to reduce crowding at existing shelters and a former hospital in Brighton the mayor says will reopen in the coming days to provide treatment massachusetts support the stayed home advisory mandated by governor Baker until early May according to a Suffolk University boston globe poll and I'm going to break down the numbers because boy they are overwhelming Let's start with the overall approval rating for governor Baker more than 80% giving a thumbs up but Here's where it and other cities that are about to enter the 40 re purposed beds for homeless people are in crisis most of these are Suffolk University dormitory students are using coarse his most classes are a cancel for in-person meetings and the rest are a former Hospital right Bob and active hospital those are spaces for homeless individuals to safely quarantine. >> suffolk university will repurpose a dorm to provide at least 172 beds. another 70 beds will be available at former hospital in homeless individuals to safely quarantine. Suffolk University is opening up dorm rooms to provide 172 more beds for those experiencing homelessness. A former hospital in Brighton is also being repurposed to provide 70

Cities also building a quarantine and isolation center next to the South Hampton Street shelter repurposing a dormant Suffolk University and re-opening the close Newton Pavilion building at Boston Medical Center said the city's most vulnerable still get the treatment they need and Olson massive Rogers the BBC Austin's news radio

Suffolk University is playing to make 172 dorm rooms available for people experiencing homelessness as mayor law works to lower crowding at city shelters recreational marijuana dispensaries are petitioning

Address the medical needs of those affected by the growing virus without a place to live. Suffolk University is also opening up more than 170 of its dorm rooms to handle the overflow as the mayor moved to expand resources for the most vulnerable he's reiterating the necessity for people to practice social distance highly contagious virus including here at Suffolk University where dorms will be turned into a shelter to help. The mayor also pointing out too many are still gathering in parking lots and their

Massachusetts support the stay-at-home advisory mandated by Governor Baker until early May according to a Suffolk University Boston Globe poll and I'm going to break down the numbers because boy they are overwhelming. Let's start with the overall approval rating for Governor Baker more than 80% giving a thumbs up but here's where it

Suffolk University has converted one of the dorms to provide safe quarantine for the homeless with 172 beds available. Another 70 beds will be available in the coming days said a former hospital in Brighton at the common better being reopened 3 purpose or belts according teen center next to the South Hampton Street shelter a dormant Suffolk University a former Boston medical center building and a former acute care center in Brighton now owned by the Davis company's director of development, Stephen Davis. What our company did and really, yeah, a backup to

Suffolk University on 89.7 WGBH - Boston, MA

3/30/2020 9:32:34 AM

Shelter space in treatment facilities for people experiencing homelessness to that end. Suffolk University is converting one of its dormitories to provide more than 170 beds to reduce crowding at existing shelters and a former hospital in Brighton will reopen in the coming days to provide treatment beds for those