MAKE YOUR MOVE
We make transferring simple
Amanda Hare knew what she wanted to do as a college student: double major in business and political science—focusing on international relations—with an eye toward practicing business on a global level. So when she was admitted to the business school of a large southern state university, she eagerly enrolled.

Amanda recalls, “I went to my advisor—which was really hard to do because it was a giant school—and she said, ‘What do you mean, you want to double major with political science?’ I said, ‘Well, that’s what I put on all the paperwork I gave you.’ And she said, ‘Well, you can’t do that here.’”

Know where you can do that?
Suffolk University.

Today’s career paths aren’t defined by artificial barriers, and at Suffolk, neither are the degree programs. Here, students like Amanda dive into rich, interdisciplinary studies spanning our entire university. They go further faster in our accelerated graduate degree programs. And they do it all in the middle of a city filled with opportunities to put classroom studies to work in jobs and internships that surround our downtown campus.

Amanda, Class of 2021, made her move to Suffolk and found what she’d been looking for. “I’ve always been a very independent person,” she says. “At Suffolk you can really start your life and do it how you want. That was so appealing coming from a school where you did it their way or not at all.”

Students transfer to Suffolk from all kinds of institutions, all over the country. Nearly a fifth of Suffolk undergraduates are transfer students—and 52 percent of those students transfer from four-year schools.

They do it because we make it easy, with one-on-one academic advising, a special orientation just for transfer students, and the ability to transfer up to 75 semester hours from their current college or university. Courses must be from a regionally accredited institution, completed with a grade of C- or higher to transfer, and cannot be remedial or developmental in level.

Students transfer to Suffolk because they find things here they won’t find anywhere else: a university big enough to offer the resources they need, small enough to enable real connection with faculty mentors and classmates, and flexible enough to let them take their futures in any direction they choose.
